

Short Story of The City Mouse And The Country Mouse with Morals - Download PDF Copy

Once there lived two mice named Max and Milo. Max lived in a big city with tall buildings and constant noise, while Milo lived in a cozy little house in the quiet countryside. They were cousins, but they lived very different lives.

Max loved living in the city. He could explore new places every day and find delicious scraps of food left behind by people. He never had to worry about boredom because there was always something exciting happening around him.

Milo, on the other hand, enjoyed the peace of the countryside. He spent his days running through the fields, eating fresh vegetables, and playing with friends, free from noisy distractions.

One day, Max decided to visit Milo in the countryside. He wanted to show Milo how great city life was and convince him to move to the city.

When Max arrived, Milo greeted him with a warm smile and showed him his home. Max was surprised to see how simple Milo's life was compared to his own. There were no tall buildings or busy streets, just trees, fields, and birds singing.

Milo took Max to a vegetable patch where they found fresh carrots and lettuce to eat. Max had never tasted anything so fresh and delicious.

As they sat snacking, Max began to realize that maybe city life wasn't as wonderful as he had thought. Yes, there were many exciting things to see and do, but there was also noise and chaos that he didn't enjoy.

After spending the day with Milo, Max said goodbye and returned to the city. But this time, he wasn't as enthusiastic about his busy life. He found himself longing for the peace and simplicity of the countryside.

When Max got home, he wrote to Milo and told him that he had decided to move to the countryside and live with him. Milo was delighted to hear the news and welcomed Max with open arms.

From that day on, Max and Milo lived happily together in the countryside, enjoying each other's company and the tranquility around them.

INSHORTSTORY.COM

Short Story of The City Mouse And The Country Mouse with Morals - Download PDF Copy

The moral of the story is: Sometimes, the simple things in life are the most valuable. It's important to appreciate what we have and not always strive for something bigger or more exciting.

Download PDF File: